I am a high school student, and I work on weekends. On Saturdays I work part-time in a clothing store, to earn money. I started working there six months ago. I am responsible for arranging and selling clothes and organizing the store. I get ten pounds an hour which is very good wages. The store manager is very nice, and I love my job.

I also volunteered two years ago to work in a charitable organization that takes care of the elderly. I go there every Sunday for three hours. I help clean up and read newspapers to some people. Even though I don't earn much money, the job is very interesting, and it boosts my self-confidence.
