

Answers
1	There is a great desire to buy upgraded copies of the game, especially as they develop rapidly, and this is very expensive. Parents use Internet games to keep their children engaged, but children should play together.
2	They are good as they improve creativity and mental skill.
3	To shop or order food without leaving home. Teaches a lot of new things at all times.
4	It may lead to some psychological damage, especially for teenagers and children who use chat rooms, as they may be exposed to bullying and theft of private information.
5	No, because you can use it at any time to browse social networks, communicate with friends and family and meet new friends around the world.
6	Because of Internet addiction.